

Senior Policy Analyst – Oregon DEQ Materials Management Program

Oregon DEQ has an exceptional opportunity for candidates interested in serving as a Senior Policy Analyst in our Materials Management Section, which plans and implements policies, programs and projects to reduce impacts of materials and products throughout their life cycle, from design and production through distribution, consumption and use and management at end-of-life. This position will support implementation of Materials Management in Oregon: 2050 Vision and Framework for Action.

The successful candidate will work closely with the program's management team, legislative analyst and senior project staff and will lead and participate in teams evaluating and developing policy options, administrative rules, legislative proposals and strategic plans for the program as well as specific projects. S/he will conduct extensive engagement with stakeholders on specific projects, policies and legislative issues. Experience in materials management, including extended producer responsibility, is desirable but not required.

This recruitment closes August 13. For additional details, visit:
